In 2003, at the young age of 44 he was promoted to President of Beijing Ji Shui Tan Hospital, 4th Clinical Medical College of Peking University.

He sits in many professional committees and editorial boards in Orthopaedics. He has published many articles and has written many book chapters and some books. His research topics are very wide, from basic sciences of biomaterial, molecular biology, spinal injury, clinical research, to state of the art topics of navigation in spinal surgery, disc replacement etc. Medline search would not give you the full picture because he has published 10 articles in Japanese journals.

Prof. Tian has received many honours and awards, not just in the medical field. Among other awards he received is the Ten Outstanding Young Persons Award of Beijing in 2002. In 2005, he received the Entrepreneur Award for those who had studies abroad, Beijing 北京留学人员创业奖.

Prof. Tian is a man of foresight and vision. In 2003, he inspected our Conjoint Fellowship Examination in Hong Kong and was impressed by the high level of professional standard and training curriculum. He decided to pioneer a training system for orthopaedic surgeon in Jishuitan Hospital. With his great enthusiasm and support; some of his young doctors have joined our membership examination with great success and they were accepted as Higher Orthopaedic Trainees under the conjoined training programme. The Jishuitan Hospital is appointed as one of the pilot center of the specialist training programme under the Ministry of Health.

Mr. President, I would like to present to you Prof. Tian Wei to be the Ad Hominem Fellow of the Hong Kong College of Orthopaedic Surgeons.
