

Jacob Tse

AD Hominem Fellowship of HKCOS 2018

Jacob Tse is a solicitor, currently non-practising. He has practised as a solicitor in Hong Kong from 1983 to 2019. He was a partner of a leading law firm, Mayer Brown (formerly known as Johnson Stokes & Master, then JSM, and then Mayer Brown JSM) from 1988 to 2019.

Jacob Tse has been an acclaimed leader in the extensive practice of medical law and medico-legal litigation (medical negligence, medical ethics, death inquests, public inquiries, professional regulation and disciplinary proceedings, employment of healthcare professionals, medical institution corporate and management issues, etc). He has also practised extensively in other civil litigation including complex commercial litigation, property litigation, and judicial review. He has represented parties to many important court cases in Hong Kong, including cases in the Hong Kong Court of Final Appeal.

Jacob Tse has, for over 35 years, acted for renowned international medical defence organisations, Hong Kong public and private hospitals, medical institutions, and numerous individual members of the medical community in Hong Kong.

Jacob Tse has for many years been the Honorary Legal Adviser to various prestigious medical professional institutions, including the Hong Kong College of Orthopaedic Surgeons, the Hong Kong Orthopaedic Association, the Hong Kong Academy of Medicine, the Hong Kong College of Physicians and others.

Jacob Tse has made significant contributions to the medical community through providing legal advice and assistance, over many years, to public and private medical institutions, medical professional institutions, and numerous members of the medical community. The Hong Kong College of Orthopaedic Surgeons is honoured to have had his advice from 2005 to 2019.